New York, Oct. 12. — The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted, together with the accompanying map, to the Peary Arctic club in support of his contention that Dr.
Cook did not reach the north pole, is now made public for the first time.

INTRODUCTION BY PEARY.

Some of my reasons for saying that Dr. Cook did not go to the north pole will be understood by those who read the following statements of the two Eskimo boys who went with him, and who told me and others of my party where he did go. Several Eskimos who started with Dr. Cook from Annorok in February, 1908, were at Etah when I arrived there in August, 1908. They told me that Dr. Cook had with him, after they left, two Eskimo boys, or young men, two sledges and some twenty dogs. The boys were Itok-a-shoo and Ah-pel-lah. I had known them from their childhood.
One was about eighteen and the other about nineteen years of age.

On my return from Cape Sheridan and at the very first settlement I reached (Nerke, near Cape Chalon) in August, 1909, and nine days before reaching Etah, the Eskimos told me, in a general way, where Dr. Cook had been; that he had wintered in Jones Sound, and that he had told the white men at Etah that he had been a long way north, but that the boys who were with him, Itok-a-shoo and Ah-pel-lah, said that this was not so. The Eskimo boys laughed at Dr. Cook's story. On reaching Etah, I talked with the Eskimo there and with the two boys and asked them to describe Dr. Cook's journey to members of my party and myself. This they did in the manner stated below.

(Signed) R. E. PEARY.

Signed Statement of Peary, Bartlett, McMillan, Borup and Henson, in Regard to Testimony of Cook's Two Eskimo Boys.

The two Eskimo boys, Itok-a-shoo and Ah-pel-lah, who accompanied Dr.
Cook while he was away from Annorok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were corroborated by Itok-a-shoo, the father of one of them (Itok-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and the last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by his son, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called In, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, pointing out with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

As he went out, the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of Itok-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Eskimos that came back from Dr.
Cook from the northern end of Nausen's strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones Sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same localities and details as the two boys.

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, walrus and musk oxen.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the chart together, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally, Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the portions of the route, with which he was personally familiar.

During the taking of this testimony, it developed that Dr. Cook had told

MAP SHOWING WHAT PEARY CLAIMS IS ROUTE TRAVELED BY DR. COOK

these boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Fitchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and the boys stated Dr.
Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Eskimos is
as follows:

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Eskimos, left Annorok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice strait to Buchanan bay. After a few marches Francke and three Eskimo boys returned to Annorok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded, up Flagler bay, a branch of Buchanan bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley past at the head of Flagler bay, indicated by Commander Peary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup in 1899, to the head of Sverdrup's "Bay Ford" on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Their route then lay out through this strait, thence north through Sver-drup's "Heuerka Sound" and Nansen strait.

On their way they killed musk oxen and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nansen strait (shore of Axel Hei-berg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cape Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Eskimos did not go beyond this point. Two others, Kooloolingwah and Inagluah, went on one more march with Dr. Cook and the two boys, helped to build the snow igloo, then returned without sleeping.

(These two Eskimos brought back a letter from Dr. Cook to Francke, dated the seventeenth of March. The two men rejoined the other four men who had been left behind, and the six returned to Annorok, arriving May 7.

This information was obtained not from the two Eskimo boys, but from the six men who returned and from Francke himself, and was known to us in the summer of 1908, when the Roosevelt first arrived at Etah. The information is inserted here as supplementary to the narrative of the two boys.)

After sleeping at the camp where the last two Eskimos turned back, Dr.
Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or northwesterly direction with two sledges and twenty odd dogs, one or more march, when they encountered rough ice and a lead of open water. They did not enter this rough ice, nor cross the lead, but turned westward or southward a short distance and returned to Heiberg Land at a point west of where they had left the cache and where the four men had turned back.

After being informed of the boys' narrative thus far, Commander Peary suggested a series of questions to be put to the boys in regard to this trip from the land out and back to it.

These questions and answers were
as follows:

Did they cross many open leads or much open water during this time?
Ans. None.

Did they make any caches out on the ice? Ans. No.

Did they kill any bear or seal while out on the ice north of Cape Thomas Hubbard? Ans. No.

Did they kill or lose any of their dogs while out on the ice? Ans. No.

With how many sledges did they start? Ans. Two.

How many dogs did they have? Ans.
Did not remember exactly, but something over twenty.

How many sledges did they have when they got back to land? Ans.

Two.

Did they have any provisions left on their sledges when they came back to land? Ans. Yes; the sledges still had about all they could carry, so they were able to take but a few things from the cache.

From here they went southwest along the northwest coast of Heiberg Land to a point indicated on the map (Sverdrup's Cape Northwest).

From here they went west across the ice, which was level and covered with snow, offering good going, to a low island which they had seen from the shore of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest. On this island they camped for one sleep.

The size and position of this island, as drawn by the first boy, was criticized by the second boy, as being too large and too far to the west, the second boy calling the attention of the first to the fact that the position of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left Heiberg Land (Cape Northwest) and the channel between Amund Ringnes Land and Ellef Ringnes Land.

This criticism and correction was accepted by the first boy, who started to change the position of the island, but was stopped, as Commander Peary had given instructions that no changes or erasures were to be made in the route as drawn by the Eskimo boys in the chart.

From this island they could see two lands beyond (Sverdrup's Ellef Ring-nes and Amund Ringnes Lands). From the island they journeyed toward the left-hand one of these two lands (Amund Ringnes Land), passing a small island which they did not visit.

Arriving at the shore of Amund Ringnes Land, the Eskimos killed a deer as indicated on the chart.

The above portion of the statement of the Eskimo boys covers the period of time in which Dr. Cook claims to have gone to the pole and back, and the entire time during which he could possibly have made any attempts to go to it.

The answers of the Eskimo boys to Commander Peary's series of independent questions, showing that they killed no game, made no caches, lost no dogs, and returned to the land with loaded sledges, makes their attainment of the pole "on the trip north of Cape Thomas Hubbard" a physical and mathematical impossibility, as it would demand the subsistence of three men and over twenty dogs during a journey of ten hundred and forty geographical miles on less than two sledge loads of supplies.

If it is suggested that perhaps Dr.
Cook got mixed and that he reached the pole, or thought he did, between the time of leaving the northwest coast of Heiberg Land at Cape Northwest, and his arrival at Ringnes Land, where they killed the deer, we must then add to the date of Dr. Cook's letter of March 17th, at or near Cape Thomas Hubbard, the subsequent four or five sleeps at that point, and the number of dogs required to march from Cape Thomas Hubbard to Cape Northwest (a distance of some sixty nautical miles), which would advance his date of departure from the land to at least the 25th of March, and be prepared to accept the claim that Dr.
Cook went from Cape Northwest (about latitude eighty and a half degrees north) to the pole, a distance of five hundred and seventy geographical miles, in twenty-seven days.

After killing the deer they then traveled south along the east side of Ring-nes Land to the point indicated on the chart, where they killed another deer.

They then went east across the south part of Crown Prince Gustav Land to the south end of Heiberg Land, then down through Norwegian bay, where they secured some bears, but not until after they had killed some of their dogs, to the east side of Graham Island; then eastward to the little bay marked "Id's Ford" on Sver-drup's chart; then southwest to Hell's Gate and Shannon's peninsula.

Here for the first time during the entire journey, except as already noted off Cape Thomas H. Hubbard, they encountered open water. On this point the boys were clear, emphatic, and unshakable. They spent a good deal of time in this region, and finally abandoned their dogs and one sledge, took to their boat, crossed Hell's Gate to North Kent, up into Norfolk Inlet, then back along the north coast of Collin Archer Peninsula to Cape Vera, where they obtained fresh elder duck eggs. Here they cut the remaining sledge off, that is shortened it, as it was awkward to transport with the boat, and near here they killed a walrus.

From Cape Vera they went on down into the southwest angle of Jones Sound, where they killed a seal; thence east along the south coast of the sound, killing three bears at the point noted on the map, to the peninsula known as Cape Sparbo on the map, about midway on the south side of Jones Sound. Here they killed some musk-oxen and, continuing east, killed four more at the place indicated on the chart, and were finally stopped by the pack ice at the mouth of Jones Sound. From here they turned back to Cape Sparbo, where they wintered and killed many muskoxen.

After the sun returned in 1909 they started, pushing their sledge, across Jones Sound to Cape Tennyson; thence along the coast to Clarence Head; (passing inside of two small islands not shown on the chart, but drawn on it by the boys), where they killed a bear; thence across the broad blight in the coast to Cadogan Ford; thence around Cape Isabella and up to Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor near Cape Sabine, where they found a seal cached for them by Panikpah, Itok-a-shoo's father. From here they crossed Smith Sound on the ice, arriving at Annorok.

VERDICT OF $42.50 IN THE TANN CASE

Trial of Action of Edgar vs. Prindle
Was Taken Up in Circuit Court
This Afternoon.

Arguments in the damage action brought by Emma Tann of Judan against Walter Worley were concluded by Attorney Claude J. Hendricks, for the plaintiff, and Atty. J. J. Cunningham, for the defendant, in circuit court about eleven o'clock this morning and the jury, after deliberating for a short period of time, returned a verdict of $42.50 for the plaintiff. The case was taken to the circuit court on appeal from municipal court where the plaintiff obtained a considerably larger award.

WERE MARRIED IN BIG MACHINE SHOPS

Lunch Room of Fairbanks-Morse Plant at Beloit Scene of Wedding Last Night.

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 12.—Wedding bells at the Fairbanks-Morse plant—That is the latest and they rang out merrily amid the grinding and wheeling of the axes of machinery surrounding the happy bride and groom.

A marriage ceremony was performed at about nine o'clock in the cafe connected with the plant. The contracting parties were Earl Smith, son of the keeper of the lunch room, and Miss Florence Dunn, formerly of Dixon, Ill., and a graduate of the school of telegraphy of that city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. H. Kohlstadt of the Methodist church in the presence of many relatives and close friends. When the interested persons asked Manager Voll for permission to have the ceremony there he gladly consented and notified the gatekeeper to admit all wedding parties for the night. The several hundred night hands volunteered to be witnesses, but the shop management were not as willing to co-operate in that direction. A happy social session was passed behind the walls of the great shops, interest being added by the novelty of the surroundings.

A Useful Remedy.
Little Jamie, aged three, was playing with his little friend, Jack. At the time Jamie chanced to have a rather heavy cold and was sneezing quite often. Jack's mother heard him several times and sympathetically asked: "Why, Jamie, what a cold you have! Doesn't your mother give you anything for it?" "Yes, ma'am," Jamie very respectfully answered, "She gives me a clean handkerchief," whereupon she produced the prescribed "remedy." —Delinquent.

The Beggars of Madeira.
There is only one fly in the ointment of Madeira comfort—the beggars. They begin to beg before they can walk, and they call, "Penny! penny!" before they can lip the sacred name of "ma'ma." However, one good thing has come of our experience with them. They have prepared us for beggars elsewhere. We are hardened, now—at least, we think we are. The savor of pity has gone out of us. —From "The Ship-Dwellers" by Albert Nigelow Paine, in the Outing Magazine.

Queen's Golden Thimble.

BANQUET CLOSES
SEASON'S CONTESTFIRST ANNUAL COMMERCIAL LEAGUE BANQUET HELD LAST EVENING.

HUNDRED ENJOYED EVENING

Repeat Was Spread at Hotel Myrra and Was Followed by Delightful Post Prandial Talks.

Officially the baseball season for the Commercial League closed in September, but socially the season ended last evening when the members of the six teams that had taken part in the summer contests, their managers, the umpires and heads of the business houses represented, enjoyed a most delightful evening at the Myers hotel. Fully a hundred sat down to a sumptuous repast at seven tables. Tables for sixty had been laid in the ordinary and the remainder sat at long tables in the dining room proper. At each plate was a carnation and the weeks of school and it is the duty of the superintendent to notify and present the parents of those who do not attend school at least 120 days in the year. There are some seven thousand children of school age in Rock county, outside of the cities of Janesville and Beloit, and the proportion of those who do not comply with the requirements regarding school attendance is a very small one.

he service corporations have been required to render better service than ever before. We believe it has been shown that the affairs of the city can be run by a few men elected from different wards, because under the present system the officials representing their responsibility to the entire people endeavor to administer the affairs of the city in the best interest of the whole population instead of advancing for a particular section, as is frequently the case under the old form of government.

As you will notice, our charter provides for the recall and referendum. This recall has never been invoked, and only once has the referendum feature been made use of, and that was in voting on a proposition to grant a franchise to a second telephone company. We have not had public nominations for city officials in a great many years, although we have had some agitation by a few men endeavoring to bring about that condition.

Trusting that the foregoing information will answer your purpose, I beg to remain,

Yours truly,

S. J. HAY,
Mayor.

CITY OF FORT WORTH.

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 8, 1909.

Dear Sir: Yours of Sept. 30th, addressed to our mayor, has been referred to me for reply. I shall answer your questions in the order you asked them and return them to you.

1st. Our commission form of government was adopted in 1905.

2nd. Am unable to state definitely or even approximately the saving to taxpayers but it is my opinion that the government under this present form is more economically administered than under the old form.

3rd. Streets and public improvements have been increased wonderfully within the past two or three years.

4th. Our people are perfectly satisfied with the present form of government and do not desire to return to the old form.

5th. I am unable to state that the police departments maintain better law and order than under the old form of government, but it is my opinion that said department is now administered more economically than before and is at least as efficient.

6th. Public utilities are dealt with to a much better advantage.

I am sending you under separate cover a copy of our present city charter.

Yours very truly,

A. B. CURTIS,
Asst. Corporation Counsel.

Anthony, Kansas, Oct. 6, 1909.

Mr. H. F. Bliss, Janesville, Wis.

My Dear Sir: Your letter of September 30th, to the mayor, has been delivered by him to me, and on account of the fact that I am city attorney, I have had it answered by him, but I request you to answer the questions which you enclosed with the answers to them made out by him.

W. A. Miller, mayor of this city, last spring the government of this city was put into the hands of the commission, consisting of the mayor and two commissioners, who were elected by the city at large.

The mayor was elected for one year, one of the commissioners for two years, and one for three years. Next spring we will elect a mayor for three years, and after that one of these places will be filled each year.

It is too soon to enable us to give any reliable figures by which comparison can be made as to the efficiency of the commission from a pecuniary standpoint. This city owns its waterworks and electric light plants and there is probably no one here who would hesitate to endorse the methods by which the affairs of the city are administered at the present time.

While the question of the commission form of government is producing a great deal of agitation over the country, it is, in fact, not a new question. It is, in fact, not a new question. It is, in fact, not a new question. It is, in fact, not a new question.

Our law provides for the initiative and referendum, and while the requirement of forty per cent of the electors on the petition to initiate legislation is so burdensome, that method will probably rarely be used; yet the people do have some chance to shape their own affairs between elections.

With three men conducting the affairs of the city its business is transacted in a prompt and efficient manner and when any particular policy is adopted it can be executed without vacillation.

Very truly yours,

music of F. E. Williams' orchestra was heard from the parlor where they were stationed.

Tonight's banquet in caps, followed by sliced cucumbers and escalloped oysters, with primo roast beef at his, Hubbard squash, mashed potatoes, tomato salad, vanilla ice cream, assorted cake and coffee and hot rolls with cigars, the gift to the league of T. E. McKeague, made up the evening's menu.

Then all gathered in the ordinary where P. E. Bliss, president of the league, opened the most splendid program with a neat story and address.

"To the base ball," was the toast of W. R. Kohler of the Wisconsin Carriage Co., who duly lauded the subject assigned to him. He traced the origin of the game back into the past and showed conclusively it was an American game. His talk was most interesting and well received by the members of the league who appreciated the study the address had made necessary.

Mr. Palmer spoke of the trophy, representing the V. M. C. A. At this time President Bliss said it to call Captain Fred Porter, of the winning Janesville Machine Company's team, to the umpire's table and presented him with the silver trophy cup presented to the league by the V. M. C. A. McNaughton Hardware company.

Captain Porter made a neat speech of acceptance and Mr. Bliss followed it up with a talk on the benefits derived from the game and the association that came to the players in their contest for the first honors in the league contests.

"To the winners" was the topic assigned to David Wood, of the Gazette team having finished in last place. The address of the evening, however, was that of George Drummond, manager of the victorious Janesville Machine Company's team whose subject was "To the Losers."

Mr. Drummond interpreted this to mean "The Gazette team and let his talk into a clever jangle while he read, taking up every member of the team alphabetically.

George Bennett, of the Parker Pen Company, closed the regular program with a topic being "The Commercial League." Mr. Bennett mapped out the work of the past year, the rules taken made and the prospects for the future with new rules, new constitution in which all teams start even.

President Bliss then urged the members of the Commercial League to interest themselves in the V. M. C. A. basketball games and talked of the organization of a Commercial League basketball league. His talk met with the approval of those present and it is possible that such a league will be formed.

At this time by a rising vote, the league gave a vote of thanks to Mr. Bliss for his work as president and the successful issues of his endeavors to form a baseball league for the Saturday half holidays during the summer.

Mr. Van Torp shook hands coldly with Logothetti. Baraka walked directly to Krallinsky, and then stood stone-still before him, gazing up steadily into his eyes.

Neither Margaret nor Mrs. Rushmore was to be seen. Van Torp and Logothetti both watched the other two, looking from one face to the other. Krallinsky, with his eyes fixed on the two, surveyed the lovely young barbarian unmoved, and the silence lasted half a minute. Then she spoke in her own language and Krallinsky answered her, and only Logothetti understood what they said to each other. Probably it did not occur to Krallinsky that the Greek knew Tartar.

"You are not Ivan. You are fatter, and you have not his eyes."

Logothetti drew a long breath.

"No," answered Krallinsky, "I am Yuryi, his brother. I never saw you, but he told me of you."

"Where is Ivan?"

"Dead."

The proud little head was bowed down for a moment and Baraka did not speak till several seconds had passed. Then she looked up again suddenly. Her dark eyes were quite dry.

"How long?"

"More than four months."

"You know it?"

"I was with him and buried him."

"It is enough."

She turned, her head high, and went to the door, and no one hindered her from going out.

"Mons. Logothetti!" Lady Maud called him, and the Greek crossed the saloon and stood by her. "He is not the man, I see," she said, with a vague doubt in her voice.

"No."

Van Torp was speaking with Krallinsky in low tones. Lady Maud spoke to Logothetti again, after an instant, in which she drew a painful breath and grew paler.

"Miss Donna knows that you are on board," she said, "but she wishes me to say that she will not see you, and that she considers her engagement at an end, after what you have done."

Logothetti did not hesitate.

"Will you kindly give a message to Miss Donna from me?" he asked.

"That quite depends on what it is," Lady Maud answered coldly.

She felt that she herself had got something near a death-wound, but she would not break down.

"I beg you to tell Miss Donna that I yield to her decision," said Logothetti with dignity. "We are not suited to each other, and it is better that we should part. But I cannot accept as the cause of our parting the fact that I have given my protection to a young girl whom I have extracted from great trouble and have treated, and still treat, precisely as I should have treated Miss Donna if she had been my guest. Will you tell her that?"

"I will tell her that."

"Thank you. Good-morning."

He turned and went towards the door, but stopped to speak to Van Torp.

"This gentleman," he said, "is not the man my guest was said to find, though he is strikingly like him. I have to thank you for giving her an opportunity of satisfying herself. Good-morning."

Mr. Van Torp was extremely grateful to Logothetti for having refused himself in Margaret's eyes, and would in any case have seen him to the gangway, but he was also very anxious to know what Krallinsky and Baraka had said to each other in Tartar. He therefore opened the door for the Greek, followed him out and shut it behind him. Baraka and Sulro had disappeared; they were already in the launch, waiting.

"Now what did they say, if it isn't?"

man struggled a little, but the five seamen held him fast and carried him out kicking.

"Stomp."

The valet was preparing to follow the prisoner, and was quite calm again.

"Yes, sir."

"If he won't sit still to be shaved, cut his head off."

"Yes, sir."

Van Torp's eyes were awful to see. He had never been so angry in his life. He turned and saw Lady Maud pressing her handkerchief to her right temple. The ball had grazed it, though it had certainly not been meant for her.

"Refus!" she cried in great distress, "what have you done?"

"The question is what he's done to you," answered Van Torp. "I believe the blackguard has shot you!"

"It's nothing. Thank God it hit me!"

It was meant for you.

Van Torp's rage instantly turned into tender care, and he insisted on examining the wound, which was slight but would leave a scar. By a miracle the ball had grazed the angle of the temple without going near the temporal artery, and scarcely grazing the thick brown hair.

Van Torp rang and sent for water and absorbent cotton, and made a very neat dressing, over which Lady Maud tied her big veil. Just as this was done Stomp appeared at the door.

Answer This Question

When thousands of women say that they have been cured of their ailments by a certain remedy, does this not prove the merit of that remedy?

Thousands of women have written the story of their suffering, and have told how they were freed from it by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—for thirty years these reports have been published all over America.

Without great merit this medicine could never have gained the largest sale of any remedy for woman's ills—never could have become known and prized in nearly every country in the world.

Can any woman let prejudice stand between her and that which will restore her health? If you believe those who have tried it you know this medicine does cure.

Read this letter from a grateful woman, then make up your mind to give Mrs. Pinkham's medicine a chance to cure you.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I am a firm believer in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was a great sufferer from organic female troubles for years, and almost despaired of ever being well again. I had bearing-down pains, backache, headache and pains in my abdomen, and tried Mrs. Pinkham's Compound as a last resort. The result was astonishing, and I have used it and advocated it ever since. It is a great boon to expectant mothers. I have often said that I should like to have its merits thrown on the sky with a search-light so that women would read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their sufferings. My husband John is its praise. He has used it for kidney trouble and been entirely cured."—Mrs. E. A. Bishop, 1915 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

WORK SHOES

It is not necessary for a work shoe to look clumsy to give good wear. Have your dealer show you the good looking, comfortable, well-fitting, Mayer Work Shoes.

Made of tough stock, heavy soles, solid counters, double leather toes, double seams. Made solid and will last longer than any other shoes you can buy.

MAYER WORK SHOES

are made for working men of all classes and are "built on honor." You can save money by wearing them. Will outwear any other make.

To be sure you are getting Mayer Shoes, look for the Mayer Trade Mark on the sole. Your dealer will supply you; if not, write to us.

FREE—If you will send us the name of a dealer who does not handle Mayer Work Shoes, we will send you a free, post-paid, a beautiful picture of George Washington, 1732-1800. We also make Honorable Shoes for men, Leading Lady Shoes, Martha Washington Comfort Shoes, Yarn Cuffs, Lion Shoes and Special Men's School Shoes.

more nutrition than the same bulk of almost anything else that people eat.

You can put more sound flesh on your bones —you can put more life and vitality in your marrow—you can put a richer, clearer blood in your veins and more endurance in your brain on a diet of MOTHER'S OATS than you
